Local Boy Fully Trained

Donald Francis McKenzie, 18, seaman second class, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald V. McKenzie, 136 Glen road, Wilmington, Mass., has completed basic training at the Submarine Base, New London, Conn., for duty with our growing fleet of underseas fighters.

Seaman McKenzie will be entitled to wear the twin dolphin insignia of the submarine service after further experience aboard a sumbarine during which he must demonstrate to his commanding officer that he is fully qualified to carry out the duties of his rate. The insignia is regarded as a mark of distinction throughout the Navy.

McKenzie attended Wilmington, Mass. High School, lettering in football and basketball. He had recruit training at Newport Naval Training Station after joining the Navy July 3, 1942. "I chose submarine duty," he said, "because of the better ratings, more rapid advancement, more liberty and the 50 per cent extra pay."

The Submarine School, the only one of its kind in the Navy, is attended by a picked group of men who must pass special physical, mental, and psychological tests.

The [illegible] work takes place not [illegible] and laboratories but [illegible] submarines in which students master the actual techniques of operating the powerful fighting craft.

Wilm'ngton

Many students at Submarine School already have seen battle as members of surface ship crews before volunteering for submarine duty. Others are fresh from training stations, but all graduates are sure of action once they are assigned to a submarine due for offensive patrol. Large numbers of recent students now are serving in submarines which have sunk enemy naval or merchant vessels.

Daniel L. Mahoney of 6 Prospect street, Charlestown, died suddenly yesterday at his home. He was a resident of Silver Lake on Lake street for the past 30 years, and was widely known here. A high mass of requiem will be celebrated at St. Mary's Church in Charlestown at 10 o'clock.

Less Gas For East Under Jan. Quota

A total of 331,000 barrels of motor fuel, 34,000 less than last month, had been allocated for the Atlantic Seaboard for the month of January in an order issued by Administrator Ickes this week.

This is the full amount which may be withdrawn from East Coast refineries and terminal supply points during the month ,and is set to safeguard limited stocks.

The recent cut from 4 to 3 gallons in the value of ration coupon was done to keep consumption within the limits of available supply.

"In setting up its estimates," says Deputy Administrator Davies, "The Petroleum Administration is well aware that they do not make it possible for residents of the Atlantic Seaboard to have gasoline and fuel oils in the amounts to which they have been accustomed. We know that inconvenience and discomfort are invietable in the face of restrictions of this type.

"The estimates of supply which Administrator Ickes has given represent the most that can safely be counted upon, considering inventories on hand and transportation available."

Allocations of kerosene and fuel oils have also be encut for January from the December figures, as follows in terms of barrels:

	Dec.	Jan.
Kerosene	184,000	167,000
Heating Oils	340,000	338,000
Industrial Oils	282,000	[illegible]

Suffering a broken leg from a recent fall Mrs. George Fuller, wife of Police Officer George Fuller, was taken to the Winchester hospital. She was taken in the local ambulance by Chief Harry J. Ainsworth.

A coal truck owned by the Winn transportation company of Woburn caught fire yesterday on Main street in the square. Police Officer Clyde M. Martin disvovered the fire and telephoned for firemen, who extinguished the blaze. It is believed to have been caused by a spark from the exhaust pipe igniting the fumes from a leaking gasoline tank

America Girds for Still Greater Effort As Pearl Harbor Anniversary Nears

Review of Outstanding Engagements of Our Country's First Year at War

By CHARLES A. SINGLER

Released by Western Newspaper Union.

With the approach of December 7—the "date of infamy"—Americans everywhere will reaffirm their determination to work, fight and sacrifice to win the war, and spend a little time in retrospect. No attempt will be made here to give an overall picture of what has happened during this fateful year, but rather a review of some of the great battles in which American forces have been engaged.

Without difficulty we recall that fateful Sunday afternoon when, over a radio suddenly gone wild, the shocking and bewildering reports came in. Pearl Harbor had been attacked! People could hardly believe it. But it was true. The next day the United States declared war on Japan, and on December 16 war was declared on Japan's partners in crime, Germany and Italy.

Since then many thousands of brave American boys have been wrapped in the flag they loved, or have found a last resting place beneath the ocean's swell. These men have illuminated the pages of American history with deeds as bright as the orange flash of a cruiser's guns.

Fall of Wake Island.

All will remember with reverence the epic of Wake island, when a handful of U. S. marines, marooned on a tiny atoll in the Southwest Pacific, made history in Courage. On this occasion a heroic garrison of less than 400 marines defended Wake island against a powerful Japanese attacking force, from December 2 to 22, until they were overwhelmed by sheer numbers. With a few out-dated planes and a gun or two our boys sank seven Jap warships, one cruiser, four destroyers, one submarine and one gunboat. In the midst of the battle Commander Maj. James Devereux was asked by the Honolulu radio if he wanted anything. His reply was: "Send us more Japs." Major Devereux and his surviving men became prisoners of the enemy.

Fall of Bataan.

The next staggering shock of the war was the fall of Manila and the U. S. naval base of Cavite, in the Philippines. America took heart, though, when it learned of the magnificent defense which was put up by U. S. and Filipino troops in the rugged terrain of Bataan peninsula, under the leadership of Gen. Douglas MacArthur. As it was impossible to get reinforcements through the Japanese naval blockade of the Philippines, Bataan appeared doomed. We recall that in Bataan's darkest hour MacArthur was spirited out of the islands in a remarkable under cover dash to Australia by the "mosquito boat" hero of Subic Bay, Lieut. John D. Bulkeley.

Lieut. Gen. Jonathan Wainwright took over on Bataan—Wainwright, the stony-faced general whom the boys loved as much as MacArthur. Lacking food, heavy guns, planes and tanks, and facing an overwhelming superiority in enemy forces, Wainwright's men were finally overwhelmed by Jap forces estimated at 200,000 on April 9.

Long after the guns on Bataan ceased firing, the guns of Corregidor (Wainwright's Rock) kept firing. Wainwright and some of his men had, fortunately enough, succeeded in getting on the Rock before Bataan fell. Completely cut off from reinforcements, and heavily outnumbered, Corregidor surrendered to the Japs on May 6. Wainwright and his gallant band are now presumed to be prisoners of the Japs.

Battle of Java Sea.

The battle of the Java sea began February 27, when the Allied fleet attacked the superior Japanese fleet, off the Netherlands East Indies. In this engagement 13 United Nations warships totaling 47,708 tons were lost in a series of engagements lasting from February 27 to March 1. Included in the U. S. losses was the 9,050-ton cruiser "Houston," and the 1,193 ton destroyer "Pope." The Allies lost all five cruisers which participated in the action. A sidelight on the Battle of the Java Sea was had when the battered cruiser Marblehead, loaded with heroes and nearly sinking, steamed into a U. S. port under her own power.

These losses were hard to take, but America began to smile again—in fact it howled with delight—when the big news broke that Brig. Gen. James ("Jimmy") Doolittle, famous speed flier and World War I ace, had dropped plenty of "eggs" over Tokyo with a squadron of North American B-25s. That "mission" was fulfilled on April 18, and it went over big, both here in America and in Tokyo.

In the battle of that island-studded ocean known as the Coral sea, which is near the Solomon islands and about 1,000 miles northeast of Australia, America's first real victory of the war with Japan was scored. The action occurred on May 4 and called forth deeds of valor as thrilling as any in all American history. The Coral Sea battle was the first great naval defeat ever dealt the imperial Japanese fleets. And yet this great battle was fought entirely in the air, by the planes of opposing aircraft carriers.

The ships engaged in this battle never got sight of each other. They slugged it out without firing a single gun at another ship—the first engagement of its kind in history. In this first great victory for the U. S. in this global war the Japs lost more than 15 ships sunk and at least 20 others severely damaged. The action perhaps saved Australia from invasion.

However, America paid a price for her victory in the sultry Coral sea. In this engagement the 880-foot aircraft carrier Lexington, famed ship that laid the foundation for our modern navy's aircraft carrier operations, went to the bottom. This happened on May 7.

The destruction of a Japanese armada some hundreds of miles off Midway island, on June 4 and 5, was another action of the same kind. In this engagement U. S. army bombers roared off from their bases on Midway island—just another dot on the Pacific—to meet the most formidable array of warships that imperial Japan ever sent steaming against a foe. The armada was put to complete rout.

The carrier Yorktown was lost in the Battle of Midway. It went to the bottom on June 7 in the final phases of the great sea-air battle. But before the grand old "Y" went down she catapulted from her flight deck the dive bombers, fighters and torpedo planes that swung the tide of battle in favor of Old Glory. A heavy toll of Jap ships was taken.

A notable loss in the Battle of Midway was that of the Eighth torpedo squadron, which hurled itself in a suicidal attack on a Jap carrier, and sent it to Davy Jones' Locker. The squadron commander's orders were to get the carrier. Fifteen torpedo planes closed in, through murderous AA fire. Not a single plane returned. Of all that gallant crew of fliers there is today one lone survivor, Ensign Gay, of Texas, rescued from a rubber boat at sea by a U. S. destroyer.

Japs Invade Aleutians.

Early in June, after bombing Dutch Harbor in Alaska, Jap forces invaded several of the Aleutian islands, in the North Pacific. They made their main stronghold Kiska, and evidently believed that the everlasting fogs that shroud these islands would be their protection. But Uncle Sam was up there, too, and soon the fleet's heavy guns, Catalina Flying Boats, B-17s and B-24s (Flying Fortresses and Liberators) began bombing and blasting them out. On August 8, a U. S. navy task force, consisting of a great concentration of cruisers and destroyers, glided through the Aleutian fogs almost to the very guns of the invaders and hurled 400 tons of TNT and steel into Jap shipping and shore installations in Kiska harbor. In the battle of Kiska only one observation plane was lost. Not as much as a machine gun bullet hit the fleet.

Since that time the Japs have pulled out of the Aleutians, with the exception of Kiska, their main stronghold, and the United States has strengthened its position against them by occupation of the Andreanof group of the Aleutians—much closer to Jap-held Kiska.

Old Glory Hoisted in Solomons.

On the very day when the Japs in Kiska took such a pounding from U. S. forces—exactly eight months to the day after Pearl Harbor—Old Glory was hoisted by U. S. marines over the first territory taken back from the Japs. This glorious event took place on the mountainous island of Guadalcanal, key to the Solomon Islands in the Southwest Pacific. This 100-mile long island lies athwart the strategic route to Australia.

The Japs had labored long in hacking an airfield out of the tropical wilderness of Guadalcanal. The marines took it away from them, and there has been a continuing day and night battle for possession of the airfield ever since. In their efforts to recover this vital airfield (Henderson Field) and the key island, the Japs have risked placing the main force of their navy within range of MacArthur's deadly Flying Fortresses and the "Forts" that roar up off of Henderson Field.

We have lost some fine ships in the region of Guadalcanal, but losses on the island have been light compared to what the Japs have lost—according to navy reports their losses run four or five times as heavy as ours. However, there has been a running battle for continued possession of the island on the part of the U. S., and for re-possession on part of the Japs. Day and night the pounding goes on, from sea and sky, but the marines, backed by the army and navy, have hung on and have made some gains.

A real show-down between U. S. and Jap forces in the Solomons came about in mid-November when the greatest naval battle since Jutland in 1916 was fought. Supported by MacArthur's big bombers the navy, in a three-day running battle, smashed a tremendous enemy armada, lifting the immediate threat to U. S. positions on Guadalcanal.

As we pause to remember Pearl Harbor, we must, to get the overall picture, have in mind the heroic work of U. S. air pilots over China, and U. S. air pilots co-operating with the Royal Air Force in almost daily or nightly operations over Hitler's Reich, and over what was known as Occupied France. We must remember the fine work done by American troops in co-operation with Australians, who have pushed back the Japs in New Guinea, turning the tide of battle in the Owen Stanley mountains, saving Port Moresby, and helping to remove the threat from Australia. Day by day through all the months this has been going on—brave men dying—while we take time out to read about it.

Hero of Corregidor

When Major General Wainwright, hero of Corregidor, saw that defeat was inevitable he said, "I'll stay with my men." And he did. General Wainwright (shown above) is now a prisoner of the Japs.

Opening of the Second Front.

Things came to a head in the African desert early in November. Thousands of American boys, tank men and aviators participated in the great push of the British Eighth army against Gen. Erwin Rommel's Afrika Korps, which at one time was dangerously close to the Suez canal — one of Britain's darkest hours. Swiftly on the heels of this battle, which became a rout as British forces broke through the El Alamein line, America got the world-shaking news of the opening of the long expected Second Front at an unexpected spot in North Africa, on Saturday, November 7.

Ah, we've forgotten for the moment that raid on Dieppe, in Occupied France—that dangerous, costly raid last August when American Rangers were the first actual units to participate in land operations on the continent during this war. The Dieppe raid was not only a rehearsal for the second front, but also a red herring drawn across the bloody Nazi trail. The Dieppe raid was the foundation of the magnificent success with which the AEF in North Africa was launched, under Gen. Dwight Eisenhower.

Barges burning in the Cavite Navy Yards after a Jap bombing raid December 12.

Ship Sails Into Enemy Fleet, All Guns Blazing

In the second round of the battle for Guadalcanal, in mid-November, when the Japs threw in all they had to recapture the island with its strategic airfield, the navy did a magnificent job. In this engagement, despite their great numerical superiority in ships, enemy losses were about three to our one.

At the height of the action the cruiser San Francisco sailed right into the enemy fleet—right through the enemy fleet—as President Roosevelt told the story. All guns were blazing. At point blank range she engaged a Japanese battleship and disabled her so she could be sunk by torpedoes.

Rear Admiral Daniel J. Callaghan, a close friend of President Roosevelt, who was aboard the San Francisco in command of the spearhead of the attacking force, gave his life for his country in this battle. The San Francisco, although hit many times, was brought back to port.

New Guinea Strange Land Of Extremes in Climate

Australian and Japanese troops hacking their way through the tree-tight jungles of tropical New Guinea face the heavy and seemingly never-ending rains that travel with the trade winds or the monsoons.

This huge dinosaur-shaped island with its head almost touching the equator, its eye looking toward the southeast coast of Asia and its tail, 1,500 miles away, curved toward the northeastern tip of Australia's mainland, is a land of strange contrasts and climatic contradictions, says the National Geographic society.

Its low grasslands are often temporarily buried in the ooze of tropical swamps. Its tree-matted and vine-tangled jungles sweep up the mountain slopes and hesitate only at the swirling waters of the river's edge. And out of this tropical cauldron with its steam rising in clouds, mighty mountain peaks reach up from the very sea floor to well above 16,000 feet (Carstensz Toppen, 16,404 feet). These peaks frequently wear cold white hats of snow.

While most of the island drips, bomb-blasted Port Moresby, on the underside and near the end of the tail, is smothered in rolling clouds of dust.

HOUSEHOLD MEMOS... by Lynn Chambers

Cookie Treats

Festivity reigns in the home where the cookie jar fairly pops with Santas, Christmas trees and reindeer made up into cookies dusted with shimmering colored sugars. Have a few fruity and honey cookies along with the real sugar cookies and you will win every youngster's fondest affection.

You'll want to pack boxes, too, to send to that son at camp, perhaps, if he is not too far, and also for the one who is home on furlough, or for those nice neighbors who just moved in.

Come, join the cookie parade with the first Christmas goody on our list:

Honey Butterballs.
(Makes 30 to 40)

- 1 cup butter
- ¼ cup honey
- 2 cups sifted flour
- ½ teaspoon salt
- 2 teaspoons vanilla
- 2 cups finely chopped nuts

Cream butter, add honey, flour, salt and vanilla. Mix well and add chopped nuts. Form into small balls on a greased baking sheet and bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees) for about 35 minutes. Roll in powdered sugar while hot. Cool, then roll again in powdered sugar.

Have you ever watched the face of a child light up when he picks and chooses his favorite Christmas-y shaped cookie with his favorite colored sugar? Here's the recipe:

Old-Fashioned Sugar Cookies.
(Makes 3 dozen)

- ½ cup shortening
- 1 cup sugar
- 1 egg
- 2¾ cups flour
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- 2 teaspoons baking powder
- ½ cup milk
- ½ teaspoon vanilla extract

Cream shortening and sugar. Add egg and beat in well. Add sifted dry ingredients alternately with milk. Cut with floured cookie cutter and sprinkle with white or colored sugar. Bake on a greased sheet in a moderately hot (375-degree) oven about 15 minutes. Thin, wafer-like cookies are made by chilling the dough first, then rolling thin, and lifting shapes onto cookie tin with spatula.

Lynn Says:

The Score Card: Get into step with the meat-sharing program now—it's your assignment. Stuffings are advised as good extenders, as are stews, meat pies, meat loaves, soups, turnovers and curries.

Liver need not be included in the 2½-pound adult allowance, nor need the cold cuts, heart, sweetbreads, kidneys and other entrails.

Spices will be on the slender side from now on, but you can still have the best tasting food, ever, with domestic herbs and seasonings. You'll also enjoy emulsion flavors for baking and dessert-making. They come in wild cherry, almond, maple, lemon, and a grand citrus combination.

Vegetables that are tops on your list for wintry days include the Hubbard and acorn squashes, broccoli, beets, carrots, brussels sprouts, turnips and sweet potatoes.

Add flour mixture, working it thoroughly into dough. Chill until firm. Roll on a floured board ⅛ inch thick, and cut with a floured cutter. Bake on a greased baking sheet in a moderate (350-degree) oven for 10 minutes.

A lacy, delicate cookie are these pecan crispies—perfect for making in the winter:

Pecan Crispies.
(Makes about 35 cookies)

- 2 tablespoons butter
- 2 cups brown sugar
- 2 eggs, well beaten
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- ½ cup pastry flour
- 1 teaspoon baking powder
- ⅛ teaspoon salt
- 2 cups coarsely chopped pecans

Cream butter and sugar. Add eggs and vanilla. Mix thoroughly and add flour, baking powder, salt and pecans. Drop half-spoonfuls apart on a buttered and floured tin. Bake in a hot oven (400 degrees). Cool slightly before removing from pan.

Does the whipped cream get sulky? The cake fall at the crucial moment? The table decorations look flat and pointless? Explain your problem to Lynn Chambers and she'll tell you what to do about it. Mrs. Barrows Praises X-mas Seal Workers

The most recent returns from the Christmas Seal Sale brought the total received to date, from the Southern Middlesex Health Association Area, to $21,528.80, according to Miss Margaret Roberts, Executive Secretary of the Association.

Only $13,472 is needed now to meet the requirements of the association for 1943.

"We are still hoping to hear from the persons who have not yet acknowledged the Seals they received on November 23." Mrs. Herbert C. Barrows, the Chairman of The Wilmington Tuberculosis Association said. "While the Seals will not be used much longer, the money received for them works the year around. It's never too late to send in Christmas Seal contributions."

Mrs. Barrows expressed the appreciation of the association to all Seal purchasers, saying:

"Without your aid, the work of preventing and controlling tuberculosis, which kills more persons between 15 and 45 than any other disease, could not go on in Middlesex county.

Mrs. Barrows paid high tribute to the many volunteer workers who handled the Seal Sale for the association.

"To these men and women who not only bought Seals, but who gave their time and energy to the campaign, the Committee and, we are sure, all residents of Wilmington are deeply grateful," she added. "By handling the Seal Sale, these men and women make possible the year-round work of the association.

Registrations Off 100,000

Discouraged by the effects of war and rationing from renewing their registrations, approximately 100,000 motorists apparently have decided to garage their automobiles, the Registry of Motor Vehicles reported last week.

Automobile registrations were running 23 percent behind the previous year, but a late rush for renewals may change the picture.

Chief Accountant William Campbell reported at mid-week that 371,257 registrations for all types of vehicles had been issued, as compared with 491,440 for 1942 on the same date. However, early in the week 45,030 registrations were issued in a single day, which was 10,029 more than the same day a year ago.

Endorsements To Be In Ink

The OPA warns that all endorsements on the backs of ration coupons must be in ink to prevent alterations. Endorsements made in pencil have led to easy alteration which injures the effectiveness of the rationing program, it is stated.

The Office of Price Administration is urging motorists and others holding gasoline ration books to properly endorse their coupons at once, pointing out that this will eliminate the necessity of endorsement at the time gasoline is purchased. The OPA said it also will help protect ration books from misuse in cases of loss or theft.

A, B, C and D coupons must be endorsed on the back with the car license number and State of registration. Passenger fleet operators using interchangeable coupon books must write or stamp, the fleet name. "T" coupons must be endorsed on the back with the War Certificate Number or the fleet name. "E" and "R" coupons must have the name and address of the user written on the back.

Frederic P. Melzar, son of Mr and Mrs. Harold E. Melzar of Lake street, has been promoted from lieutenant, junior grade, to lieutenant in the U. S. Navy. He graduated from Wilmington High School in 1938 and from the Mass Nautical School in 1940.

Benjamin F. Drey of West street was taken in the local ambulance to the Tewksbury State hospital yesterday in charge of Chief Harry J. Ainsworth.
